

Affordable Housing: Application and Eligibility

Policy No. AH-1
Version No.	4	Date:	June 2022
Board meeting date of acceptance	June 2022
Effective date	June 2022
Review date	July 2024

Scope

This policy applies to all tenants, staff and applicants of Amélie Housing in affordable housing properties and programs.

Policy Statement

Amélie Housing will advertise, allocate and manage affordable housing properties to eligible applicants transparently and fairly.

Affordable Rental Housing (Affordable Housing) is a program that offers properties at a rental price below the private rental market for income earners in a low to moderate-income bracket.

All properties will be allocated following regulatory guidelines for each state and territory.

Compliance

This policy assists Amélie Housing in complying with:

Compliance Document	Section/Number	Area
National Community Housing Standards	1.1	Allocation of Housing
Evidence Guidelines National Regulatory Framework for Community Housing	1a	Tenancy and Housing, Allocate Housing

Eligibility

State Governments or Commonwealth programs set eligibility for Affordable Housing properties and programs.

Amélie Housing offers affordable rental housing properties in multiple states and territories and complies with eligibility criteria for each.

Amélie Housing will

- Advertise properties when they become available through digital media
- State income eligibility for each property
- State eligibility for each property
- Clearly state the length of initial tenancy offered

Income and Eligibility

Income limits apply for eligibility for affordable housing properties and programs.

Depending on the program type and funding, these may differ from state to territory.

Income limits vary across affordable housing programs and according to household size, with the maximum limit increasing with each additional person in a household.

Amélie Housing will advertise income limits for eligibility for each vacancy according to the state, territory and program requirements.

Current Income and Eligibility Guidelines

Commonwealth

- National Rental Affordability Scheme (NRAS) : Income Eligibility

New South Wales

- NSW Affordable Housing Ministerial Guidelines

South Australia

- Income and Asset Limits – Affordable Homes Program

Income limits will be updated and reviewed as income limits change. This is generally on an annual basis.

Amélie Housing will update the links to income limits and change the income limits on advertised properties when each change occurs.

Proof of Income

Proof of income must be verified through documents, including

- Payslip, letter or statement from an employer detailing the gross wage, applicable tax, deductions, pay period and payee details for salary or wages
- Profit and loss statement completed by an accountant or taxation return for the self-employed client
- Letter or statement from an investment organisation about savings/investments providing details of the amount received
- Letter from another organisation or income provider (not listed above) detailing the amount and type of income received
- Three months of bank statements from an Australian financial institution

General Eligibility

For most programs, applicants must

- Be an Australian citizen
- Be a resident of the state or territory in which they are applying
- Earn an independent income within the eligibility limits (not all household members can rely on government payments such as Newstart)
- Remain eligible for the duration of tenancy (i.e. remain in employment to maintain eligibility)
- Be able to provide proof of identity
- Be able to live independently
- Be over 18 years of age

Advertisement of Vacancies and Open House

Amélie Housing uses digital media for advertising Affordable Rental Housing properties, such as Real Estate.com.au.

Amélie Housing will also alert support providers and partner organisations who have clients who may meet eligibility criteria to apply when properties become available.

All properties will be inspected at an open house, and applicants can apply for Affordable Housing after viewing the property.

Application

Any eligible person or household who wants to apply for an affordable housing property must complete a standard rental application.

This includes being able to provide proof of

- Rental history and housing history
- Income, including income from employment
- Proof of identity
- Household members

Waitlist

Amélie Housing may keep a wait list for properties or interested persons who wish to apply for affordable housing properties. The waitlist will be ranked in order of application and meet eligibility requirements for each vacancy. If a household is not successful in their application, they may be invited to reapply when other vacancies arise.

Complaints and Appeals

If a tenant is not satisfied with a service provided by Amélie Housing or does not agree with its decision, they can ask for a formal review. To do this, the tenant can complete a review of the decision form.

Details on how to make a complaint, provide feedback or lodge an appeal are found in Amélie Housing Complaints and Appeals policy.
